Keith's focus is on aligning our merchandising functions to increase brand visibility for ATD's manufacturer partners. This alignment makes our customers more competitive. Keith also oversees the development of ATD's transformation strategy, which drives efficiencies and speed-to-market for our strategic initiatives, creating a positive impact for ATD customers and suppliers.

Quote from —Keith Calcagno, Chief Merchant & Strategy Officer

We are always focused on improvement and transformation. That means making everything work better for our customers, including brand visibility, efficiency, speed- to-market, and more.”

—Keith Calcagno, Chief Merchant & Strategy Officer

Since joining ATD in 2003, Keith's work has been instrumental in developing new business ventures within the automotive industry. He has a strong financial background, including experience at DaimlerChrysler (now Chrysler) and K-Mart in roles including corporate and supply chain finance and strategic planning. He received an MBA in finance from Indiana University and a BA in economics and political science from Kenyon College.
